Lawyer Wicks Testifies About His Inter view in a Turkish Bath.

Lawyer De Lancey Nicoll opened the in estigation into the West Washington Market ands allotment before the Commissioners counts this morning with an interesting recital of the hunt for and capture of the runaway witness, Charles Philipsen, now under arrest in Philadelphia charged with per-testified early in the investigation that he had paid nothing for stand priveleges, but who was discovered later, through the evidence of his employers and his own admission, to have paid $3,000 to some person in the Finance Department.

Mr. Nicoll said that last Wednesday on returning to his office from the investigation, he was informed that a gentleman had called on behalf of Philipsen, who was reported as desiring to make a clean breast of his bribery transaction, telling to whom he paid the $3,000, if he were promised immunity from prosecution. This gentleman also told where Philipsen could be found.

This measurager of Philipseus was informed that the statute would grant him immunity if he should testify.

Subposna-Server F. D. Schuyler was sent after Philipsen, and followed him to Philadelphia Thursday. He returned to Taylor's Hotel, Jersey City, that evening, where Mr. Schuyler interviewed him.

From this escapade it became evident that Philipsen did not mean to testify, and Mr. Nicoli placed the case in the hands of Chief inspector Byrnes, with instructions to arrest Philipsen for perjury.

Mr. Nicoll said that, after Philipsen's return hew York, it will depend upon the action the Commissioner of Accounts and the istrict Attorney whether he will be prosected or used as a witness on the investigation.

Mr. Nicoll was very anxious to examine Assistant Corporation Counsel Wickes regarding an encounter with Philipsen in a Turkish bath in which Philipsen made some very damaging admissions regarding the fragment of money to city officials for stand privi-

Although McLaughlin claimed to be a great friend of McGrath, be did not know where he lived, and acknowledged that he had only seen him about three times in a year.

Chief Clerk Graham McAdam having en-tered the room, the examination of Mr. McLaughlin was suspended, much to that gentleman's relief, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Thomas P. Mr. Nicoll went on to tell of the corroborative character of the evidence—Storer's testimony to the effect that he give him the money and Philipsen's testimony regarding his visits to McAdam at the Sinciair House, and their trip to and through the market in a carriage.

Mr. Mitchell retorted that because Philipsen said he had to spend $5,000 for purposes of bribery that did not prove that Philipsen did not keep the money for his own use.

Commissioner Holahan said with reference to this question that Martin Stelges had testified that Philipsen had told him he had paid $500 each for his six stands and paid the money into the Market Bureau.

Mr. Philipsen had told Mr. Wickes he gave this $3,000 to Mr. McAdam. The Commissioner proposed to admit this evidence and allowed Mr. McAdam to go on the stand and deny or explain the transaction.

"This, he said, was the Saturday before Mr. Kelso's death.

"Philipsen further said he was going to see McAdam that night and would immediately proceed outside the jurisdiction of the courts of this State."

Mr. McAdam was invited to take the s'and and explain this remarkable story of Philipsen's, but, on the advice of Lawyer Mitchell, he refused to testify at present.

President Smith Says It Knocks His Company Completely Out.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 12. -Mr. Fish came nto the Assembly this morning and introduced a resolution giving the Ceiling Fraud Investigation Committee indefinite time in which to make their report.

This, he said, he asked at the unanimous equest of the Committee and the time was ranted without opposition. The Court of Appeals this morning decided that the Broadway Arcade Company had really no charter and that all its acts are constitutional. It was acting under the charter of the Old

Beach Pneumatic Tunnel Company, and the Judges have decided that by no stretch of meaning could this charter for an eight-foot underground bore be made to give permission for a forty-four-foot tunnel with four tracks. The decision is written by Judge Earl. Edward Lauterbach, who is here, says the decision is just as he expected, and that now the Company which he represents will pro-ceed at once to build their underground way up Mulberry street and Madison avenue.

Melville C. Smith. President of the New York Arcade Railroad Company, was very blue when found at his office by an Evening WORLD reporter.

"All that I care to say about the decision is that it knocks us out completely. It renders null and void all of the amendments to the Beach Pneumatic Tunnel law since 1863."

The Arcade proposed to "build a four-track underground road under Broadway and clear to Yonkers.

In 1868 a charter was issued to the Beach Company for pneumatic tubes under this city.

In 1868 a charter was issued to the Beach Company for pneumatic tubes under this city and Brooklyn to be used for blowing packages through from station to station.

At about that time rapid-transit schemes by the score were evolved from the brains of capitalists, and the Legislature was besieged with petitions for charters.

The result was the Gilbert system, the Yonkers West Side system, the Metropolitan Transit and Central Underground system.

The Gilbert afterwards crystalized into the "L" system, and in 1868 an amendment to the Gilbert charter permitted the "L" structure and steam-cars on it.

In 1874 the constitution was amended pro-hibiting special acts chartering railroads ex-cept under the General Railroad act. But the schemers insisted that old charters could be amended. The Beach charter was amended

John Jacob Astor, Orlando B. Potter, the Rhinelanders, Vanderbuits and other property-holders began a suit for an injunction forbidding the Areade from operations. Judge Dillon argued for them and James C. Carter for the railroad company, with the result above after four years of litigation.

All of the surface and elevated railway companies were interested in opposition to the Areade, of course.

During and before Alden's reign the "Criterion's" we'l-filled free-lunch counter has been liberally patronized by wandering minstrels and fakir Thespians.

McCaffrey says that, with all due respect to the "profesh," that's not the kind of trade he's looking for. In addition to improving and adding to the stock now in the saloon, McCaffrey is going to thoroughly renovate the place, both outside and in.

MUNDANE MATTERS.

Col. Oliver H. Payne is one of Col. Dan Lamont's new partners. He is worth a good many millions. It is probably with pleasure that Col. Dan Lamont's prosperous friends see him with Payne.

There is an old conundrum anent the where-foreness of the Miller's White Hat. Since Plats got ahead of Warner with the patronage nobody would wonder to see a weed around that hat. It is a pity somebody can't get a flash-light photograph of "the Count di Montercole" be-fere he sails for his "smoked Eyetalian" home by the Lake of Koumyss. It might be quite useful for future reference, either for matrimonial or detective bureaus. The future of hard cider is to be decided in New Hampshire to-day. Oh, it is hard, hard to see the rocky old stone-fence winked at while the tender rum-blossom is proscribed by the law! The unprotected tailors of Boston are crying out against the tenement-house labor of New York. Congressman Leopold Morse once made a great speech for protection by holding up in the House a four-dollar suit of clothes, made in Boston, as an advertisement of the glory of Massachusetts' protected manufactures. What wicked boy has been throwing stones through Protection's window-glass? Where, oh, where is the Home Market Club?

Since the great strike it appears to be the im-pression among organized laborers that some-thing had dropped at Fall River. Who says there are no "white slaves" in New England?
